A CHINCH SPECULATION
S

o the English and French governments are paying their soldiers of with silver," said, "It's a fine speculation and one in which no risks need be run," says the Lake City (Colo.) Times. They buy American and Canadian and Mexican silver, convert it into a standard coin, and turn it in for payment of military expenses and make it worth $1.25 to $1.50 an ounce, clearing up 30 per cent profit on the transaction. Meanwhile the American government, the only one that has the power to convert one and a half dollars to be strong quickly by and watching the hard working citizens barely hold up and despoiled of the major portion of the value of their hard won products without saying one word of warning that the practice must be stopped. When the day of reckoning comes how we will take ourselves for our folly. The American people are worse than East in their eagerness to sell their birthright of natural riches for means to enjoy the pleasures of the passing hour. If they do not live so regard it will be safety because of the permanent richness and variety of the natural resources. But in the meantime England and France and Germany and Russia are profiting by our stupidity.

THE KNOCKER'S PRAYER

LORD, please don't let Tonopah grow. I've been here for a dozen years and during that time I've fought every public improvement. I've given exclusively from the very beginning to every man who came here and looked like ready money, that the judges couldn't possibly go down. I do not advertise in the Bonanza because I don't want to encourage any enterprise that helps me out.

Dear Lord, send us showers of open irrigation and use your influence to further depress the price of silver. O Lord, send us another grand jury.

You know, Lord, that this million a month the Tonopah mines produce doesn't do the world any good. It is the root of all evil and should be curbed and curtailed. I thank God that thou hast permitted pertinent influence to display themselves in this city, but regret that their activities have abated. In conclusion, dear Lord, please don't let Tonopah grow Amen.

A MERRY AND THOUGHTFUL CHRISTMAS

THE BONANZA extends to its readers Christmas greetings. May the day be spent in feasting and merriment, giving, however, due regard to the significance of the holiday. Let God be glorified and peace and good will reign among men.

The people of Tonopah have not always observed the mandate delivered on the original Christmas Day. Crime has been rampant against class and man against man. Personal and property rights have been violated by mobs and conspirators and the reputation, as well as the commerce, of the city has been impaired by these acts of violence and deadly crimes.

On this Christmas and hereafter let a better spirit prevail among men, one of obedience to law, both human and divine, or the end that Tonopah may fully regain the reputation it had in the halcyon days, when every inhabitant longed out and not a door was barred.

Unquestionably during the war with Spain more men died from eating condemned meat than from the bullets of the enemy, yet the supreme court of Kansas holds that a dealer in tainted meat cannot be punished, through lack of a specific statute prohibiting such an offense. It is presumed that such a law will be enacted at the next sitting of the legislature of the sunflower state, but meanwhile the poisoning of the people will probably go merrily on.

The inaccuracies of the war correspondent are bad enough, but they possess the element of human interest, but the intentional errors on the part of the various governments engaged in battle cause their reports to be taken with not only a grain of salt, but a little chloride of lime.

Heavy purchases of sugar in the United States by France and other foreign orders should stimulate the Nevada Sugar company to resume business next year, for indications are that the politicians waver will cease to inquire: "Do you prefer one lump or two?"

A corporation, formed since the German attack upon the shores of England to sell bombardment insurance, is doing a land office business in eastern Canada. Solicitors for this company would not thrive in Nevada, we are pleased to remark.

Ed Cawfield, the last of the old school of gamblers, who died recently in New York, left a fortune of $1,000,000. The percentage in favor of the dealer must have been considerable in the olden times.

Tomorrow is the centennial of the convention of Ghent, where articles of peace were signed. It is regrettable that just 100 years thereafter the world should be plunged into a titanic war.

With a percentage of 98, Tonopah led the state last month in the matter of sunshine. The climatic advantages of this city should be more generally exploited.

BEST COLT OWNED BY KING'S STABLE AT SEASON'S END

ALEX. TAYLOR'S HORSES EARN
$16,000 DURING PERIOD
OF RACING

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—The racing season under the auspices of the jockey club closed with the king's stable as owner of the year's best colt. Fier Maroc, which is regarded as the most promising candidate for next year's Derby. Fier Maroc went through the season undefeated, a distinction enjoyed by no other juvenile of note.

The list of winning owners is headed for the second time in succession by A. H. Joel, whose dozen winners captured an average of two races apiece, worth in the aggregate about $1,000, or again $60,000 taken by the majority, who ranks sixth in the list. Three-fourths of the king's total was won by Fier Maroc. Among the first twenty names of winning owners there is not a mark of under $1,000. Walford Astor, with only three winners, won over $60,000, giving him second place. W. H. Singer won $40,000. H. B. Duray $32,000. Mr. Fairlie $29,000, and H. P. Whittaker $27,000.

Among the trainers, Alex. Taylor was the most successful, horses from the Marston stables winning $16,000 in the list of winning jockeys, the best rider, Steve Longfellow, stands firmly first, with 123 victories monopolized for seven years by Frank Woolsey and Danny Maher, both now retired.

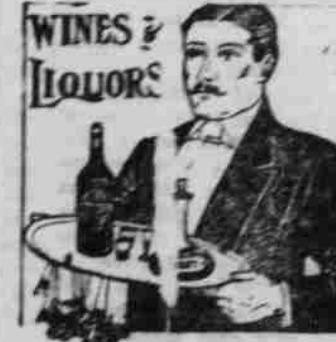

CAT SAVES LIFE OF AN OLD PROSPECTOR

Peter Brown, of Silver City, will testify that even a cat can be a mighty useful animal. Early Friday morning Mr. Brown was asleep in his cabin in Silver City and was awakened by the loud meowing and bawling of his pet cat. The cat had jumped upon Mr. Brown's bed and was scratching at the bed clothes when he awoke and found the room full of smoke and one wall afire. He got out safely and secured most of his belongings. Mr. Brown is an elderly man and lived alone in the cabin with the cat.—Enterprise.
